

A. Deitch ↓

(x)

College of Physicians & Surgeons of Columbia University

COMPREHENSIVE CANCER CENTER

701 WEST 168th STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y. 10032

October 11, 1982

Dear Josh,

Thank you for your note sent to me earlier this year. I delayed answering until I located and had typed a copy of the letter I received from Arthur Pollister. While I can't <sup>myself</sup> remember other than a general interest in and knowledge of Avery's work (as transmitted to us by AWP), Pollister's reaction to Horace Judson Freeling's book is very illuminating. I think as a letter it also illustrates AWP's enthusiasm and balanced viewpoint. He was slow to come to accept the findings of molecular biology: I remember his asking me in the <sup>late</sup> '60's, <sup>or early '70's</sup> whether I really believed in RNA? Walker and I spent a weekend with him then, and it was a talk-fest of questions and answers about where cell biology and molecular biology had got to. I must try and visit him again now that I have a 'phone number and new location. He and Priscilla used to have a place in South Jersey in which they spent Spring & Fall, even Winters. They now spend Spring & Fall in Pennsylvania, Winters in Texas, and Summer in Maine. They are adaptable people!

I hope to see you at the Rockefeller.

(re Pollister)

re AWP Pollister